French Bayonets Drive Reds From Dien Bien Phu Trenches

Ease Pressure On Garrison Before Attack

Hanoi, Indochina (AP) — French foot troops charged from Dien Bien Phu with drawn bayonets yesterday and drove Red-led Vietminh forces from trenches along the main airstrip barely 800 yards from the heart of the fortress.

The savage attack was aimed at easing pressure on the embattled garrison, which has been braced for another all-out Vietminh assault. Rebel units had been entrenched on the shell-pocked air strip nearly a week.

A French spokesman said the bayonet charge was preceded by a withering barrage of artillery and tank fire.

At the same time it was announced the rebels had gained a new foothold in the northwest corner of the bastion, but the spokesman said this was not regarded as serious.

The rebels already hold an important French outpost to the northwest and have used it as a launching point for previous mass assaults.

To the northeast, French patrols, shielded by tanks, plugged new gaps created by Vietminh pressure against the barbed wire barricades.

The French war effort received another boost with disclosure today of the arrival of a batch of U. S. Corsair fighter-bombers in Indochina. It was the first time since the United States has undertaken large scale military aid to the French and Vietnamese that Corsairs have been delivered.

The Navy planes were delivered by U. S. Navy pilots to a French air base.

Meanwhile, the French opened a mass "psychological attack" on the Vietminh encamped in the hills surrounding the oval plain of Dien Bien Phu.

Squadrons of planes showered down nearly a million leaflets. They called on the Vietminh to surrender and "stop spilling your blood for Red China."

In an Easter message to the tens of thousands of Vietminh poised for a third attempt to overrun the fortress, the French told the rebels they could not win.

The documents, printed in Vietnamese, asserted that the "barbarous human wave tactics employed in attacking our position already has cost the Vietminh 25,000 killed, wounded or captured."

Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap began his attack on Dien Bien Phu March 13 with four divisions — about 40,000 men. The French estimate he has since received 45,000 fresh troops.

Reports have emanated from Hong Kong that there were 18,000 Red Chinese volunteers now in Indochina, but a French command spokesman said there was "absolutely nothing" to it.

The spokesman said, however, there are about 10,000 Red Chinese military advisers, technicians, transport and communications experts working with the Vietminh army.

Planes Search For U.S. Navy's Missing Plane

St. John's, Nfld. (AP) — Twelve U. S. planes searched Greenland's icy coast Sunday without success for a U. S. Navy aircraft missing since Friday with nine men.

The missing two-engine Privateer, stationed at Argentea, Nfld., was on a routine ice patrol from Thule in Greenland to "Alert" Weather Station on the northern tip of Ellesmere Island.

The Navy said in Washington that among those aboard the plane was Henry Kaminski, of Grand Rapids, Mich., one of its leading aerial ice observers. A civilian employed by the hydrographic service, he had flown 1800 hours last summer observing ice. The hydrographic service duties include the compilation of charts for navigation.

Names of others aboard the plane were made public by the Navy Saturday night.

Poor flying weather hampered the search Saturday.

Air Force officials said the Privateer was carrying arctic survival equipment.

A U. S. transport plane with seven persons aboard, including two scientists, disappeared in the same area a month ago but was found five days later on a glacier.

YESTERDAY'S EASTER PARADE in the Stroudsburgs had hundreds of routes. They ran from homes in both boroughs to churches in both boroughs. Typical of the dozens of churchgoing groups in Monroe county is the one shown here. Special Easter services attracted record crowds. (Daily Record Photo)

BRIGHT SUNLIGHT; BRIGHT PROMISE. Easter Sunday services were blessed with pleasant sunshine, warm weather during the morning hours. Encouraged by timely good weather, large congregations were present in all Monroe churches. During the afternoon, rain fell—but it did not dampen the spirit of the day. (Daily Record Photo)

Rhee Announces South Korea To Attend Geneva Conference

Seoul, Monday (AP) — President Syngman Rhee today announced South Korea would attend the Geneva conference next week as a final effort to unify his nation peacefully.

But he made it clear he thought the attempt would fail. And in such event, he called upon the United States and other Allied nations to help drive the Communists out of North Korea.

Cole Says U.S. Holds Atomic Lead

New York (AP) — Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), chairman of the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee on Atomic Energy, says the United States has a qualitative but not necessarily a quantitative lead over the Russians in the atomic energy race.

In a talk recorded for broadcast this morning "This is New York," WCBS 9-9:30 a.m. EST., and released last night, Cole said:

"We have a substantial lead over the Russians from the standpoint of quantity in the field of atomic energy, but I am not sure we have the lead from the standpoint of quality."

"We should not underestimate the Russian scientist."

Discussing the case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, Cole said: "The joint committee was fully informed on the Oppenheimer case and was aware of it. The committee has shown no dissatisfaction in the handling of the case."

Cole did not elaborate, but added: "There was no abnormal delay, in my mind, in the development of the hydrogen bomb."

Asked how the new bigger hydrogen bomb affects American strategy, Cole said there is no basis for change in our defensive strategy.

"Our present needs call for a greater effort to intercept an attacking armada carrying these big bombs," he said. "The present problem is more acute and we must move more rapidly."

Move To Return Taft-Hartley Bill To Committee May Kill Chances Of Changes

Washington (AP) — A move to return to committee a Senate bill to revise the Taft-Hartley Labor law reportedly was winning support yesterday among Senate Democratic leaders.

The move, which if successful would all but kill the bill's chances at this session, is being pushed by Democratic members of the Senate Labor Committee.

They are preparing a minority report describing the measure as "superficial" in all but one or two respects and asking that it be sent back for further study. The report also criticizes the committee's handling of the bill, which closely follows President Eisenhower's recommendations.

House Budget Cut Drive Falls Flat

Washington (AP) — Moneywise and percentage-wise, the 1954 House budget-cutting drive has fallen flat on its face when measured by last year's yardstick.

Bills appropriating eleven and a half billion dollars in operating funds for nine big federal agencies and more than a score of independent bureaus and departments have passed the House this year.

They have been cut approximately 600 millions, or about five per cent of the total of 12,100,000,000 requested by President Eisenhower.

Last year, when Congress set a record of 14 billion dollars in budget-trimming, the House had cut $2,900,000,000, or about 20 per cent from the $14,700,000,000 requested by former President Truman for the same agencies. Based on President Eisenhower's revised budget last year, the cut was about 700 millions.

The Eisenhower budget for this year is what is known in Congress as a "tight budget," leaving the legislators little leeway in making reductions. It calls for new appropriations of 56½ billions.

Some Republicans believe it would have been politically wiser for President Eisenhower to have submitted a "fatter" budget in order to let GOP lawmakers do more cutting and make a better showing in this congressional year. They had hoped to be able to cut the new budget anywhere from three to five billion dollars.

Congress will not reach either of those figures unless it makes heavy slashes in the few appropriation bills still being drafted.

The remaining bills finance the defense department, the foreign aid program, the legislative branch, the Labor Department, the Welfare Department, and the District of Columbia. The really big ones are defense and foreign aid.

Congress could, if it wished, make huge cuts in the defense and foreign aid budgets, both of which were sharply trimmed by the President before they went to Congress.

Easter Victim

Smithport, Pa. (AP) — Frank Sluga Jr., 40, of Olean, N. Y., en route to Mt. Jewett to spend Easter with his parents, was killed and three others injured yesterday in an auto wreck on Route 46 a few miles north of this McKean County town.

The minority report charged that instead of allowing the strike-ballet recommendation to come to a vote, Smith "elected to resort to the highly undesirable practice of urging the adoption of his unconsidered amendment after the bill comes to the Senate floor."

Senate Democratic leaders, headed by Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, were reported about ready to give all out support to the attempt to send the bill back to committee.

Even if the Senate did adopt a revision bill, the likelihood for final congressional action was considered remote at this time. A companion revision bill has been stalled two weeks in the House Labor Committee with reports it may die there.

"Serious" Charges Of Favors Made Against FHA Official

Washington (AP) — Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole said last night that one official is accused of "serious" charges of taking money for favors in connection with irregularities in the housing program.

Cole mentioned the case in answer to a question on the NBC-TV show "Meet the Press," but he did not indicate who was involved.

"The man has been advised of the nature of the complaint," he said. "We are ready to listen to him explain his side of the situation and he has not done so."

Cole announced last Monday that irregularities had been discovered in two of FHA's loan insurance programs — the rental apartment and the home improvement programs. Several FHA officials have either resigned or been fired as both the agency and Congress launched a double-barreled investigation.

Of the key officials removed, Cole said, "some were accused of negligence. Some of them are accused of not conducting the administrative affairs of their particular responsibility properly."

Asked why President Eisenhower requested the resignation of Guy T. O. Hollyday as FHA commissioner, Cole replied that Hollyday is "a fine Christian gentleman and a friend of mine." But he added:

"This administration cannot condone negligence and that is the reason."

The White House had said Hollyday was stepping out to permit the investigation to be carried out properly.

While Cole has said he expected criminal prosecutions to result from the inquiry, he stressed that many builders made money legally by "outguessing the appraisers" who granted loans far greater than the value of the property involved.

The Senate Banking Committee will open tomorrow an inquiry into the housing scandal. Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) said yesterday the committee is determined to uncover "any irregularities or fraud" in administration of FHA statutes, even if it takes a year.

Ike To Talk To Newsmen

New York (AP) — A speech by President Eisenhower Thursday night will highlight observance of Newspaper Week here by more than 1,200 publishers and editors.

The President will come to New York to address a Bureau of Advertising dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. He began working on the speech with advisors last week in Augusta, Ga.

Pope Appeals For Ban On Bomb Wars

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Pius XII appealed in an Easter broadcast yesterday for an international ban on using atom and hydrogen bombs except for self-defense.

The head of the Roman Catholic Church said he would try tirelessly to bring about such a ban by international agreement.

He pleaded for the nations to return to the Christian rule of universal charity to attain peace.

Broadcasting from the privacy of his Vatican apartment, the Pope told the world in a 10-minute speech that new "destructive arms of unprecedented violence" had brought "the fear of a third world conflict and a dreadful future" to the people.

He urged the rulers of nations to turn their new knowledge of atomic energy "exclusively to the purpose of peace."

The Pope lumped with A-bombs and H-bombs other mass destruction threats such as germ and chemical warfare.

After his broadcast, Pope Pius appeared on the glassed-in central gallery of St. Peter's basilica and pronounced upon a throng of more than 300,000 pilgrims and tourists his "Urbi et Orbi" blessing—to the city of Rome and to the world.

The Pope referred briefly to the abdominal ailment which had curbed his activity since Jan. 25. "I give thanks to divine providence to be with you again this Easter," the pontiff said.

Easter Tragedy Enacted During Video Program

Pittsburgh (AP) — George Millen, 49, his wife and their eight children gathered in the family living room in their North Versailles Twp. home yesterday to watch a religious television program, "Look Up and Live."

Suddenly, and without a word, Millen left the room. Seconds later, his wife sobbed. There was a shot from a bedroom. She said she rushed to the room to find her husband dead, a bullet in his brain and his rifle on the floor.

Homicide detectives, after a day-long investigation, said they were baffled by the tragedy.

The coroner's office issued a suicide verdict.

Use Of Troops Is Basis Of Controversy

Washington (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) demanded yesterday that President Eisenhower say publicly whether Vice President Nixon was laying down administration policy in envisioning the possible use of American ground troops in Indochina.

Gore's demand was made in the midst of a rising congressional controversy over the possibility of direct United States involvement in the struggle of French and Indo-chinese anti-Communist forces against the Vietminh Reds.

The State Department called this possibility "highly unlikely" but supported Nixon's statement that Southeast Asia must be saved from Communist rule.

Bulletin

Washington (AP) — Rep. Judd (R-Minn.) said yesterday President Eisenhower has assured the House Foreign Affairs Committee that Congress will be consulted if sending troops to Indochina is thought advisable.

Judd, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said it had been told "categorically" that, "We were not backing into a war in Indochina."

Nixon told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last Friday he doesn't believe American combat units will ever be needed, but in the unlikely event that the French should withdraw this country would have to send in troops.

Although Nixon sits in with the National Security Council and was sent to the editors' meeting as a substitute for Eisenhower, vacationing in Augusta, Ga., Gore said he doesn't know what authority the vice president spoke.

"The President is golfing in Georgia and the secretary of state is fishing at Duck Island while the vice president speaks," Gore said. "The vice president has no constitutional responsibility in this matter and neither does he have the authority to speak on policy unless it is delegated to him."

"It is imperatively incumbent on the President to make his policies clear with respect to our possible further involvement in Indochina. The country desperately needs a clarification and the President is the only one who can give it."

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, declined comment on whether Nixon's views expressed administration policy or whether the vice president spoke with prior White House approval.

The State Department said in a statement that Nixon was simply sketching a course of possible action he was "personally prepared to support" in the "highly unlikely" event the French should withdraw. It said he had "enunciated no new U. S. policy toward Indochina."

Gore said that did not satisfy him. However, Gore said he wants to reserve judgment on the issue and would not necessarily oppose use of American troops in a last-ditch effort to save Indochina from the Communists.

"I am inclined to support the President and the policies of the administration in this critical, tragic and dangerous situation," he said. "But I want the constitutionally responsible officials to be forthright with Congress and the people before any such decision is made."

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) said in a separate interview he favors sending U. S. combat forces into Indochina if this is found to be the only way of halting Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

Conceding this to be an unpopular view at present, Flanders, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he is confident the public and the Congress will eventually reach the same opinion.

The Vermont senator speculated that the administration had sent up a "trial balloon" to sound out sentiment through its off-the-record speech by Nixon, later identified publicly as the top administration official who spoke on Indochina at the editors' meeting.

"It often is best when the cold hard facts leak out," Flanders commented.

Stroudsburg High Band's Two Free Concerts Next Thursday, Friday Appreciation Affairs

Stroudsburg High School Band will present its concert this year "on a note of appreciation."

To show the band's sincere appreciation of community interest, in it during the past year, two concerts will be given this year instead of the usual one.

Another departure from custom is that both concerts will be given without admission charge.

According to John Pyle, band director for the school, the band has chosen this way in which to say "thank you" to residents of Stroudsburg. Through programs and sales by the Music Parents Association and band members themselves, the community has successfully managed a drive for $3,000 for new band uniforms, Pyle said.

These new uniforms will be getting their first public showcasing on Thursday and Friday night, April 22 and 23.

Money for the uniforms was raised through cake walks, magazine subscription sales, tag day and sale of old uniforms.

The Stroudsburg band now numbers 61 pieces. Thirteen seniors in the group will be making their last concert appearance with the organization.

A highlight of the concert will be presentation of the annual "Arion" award to the senior student who has contributed the most outstanding service, scholarship and musicianship to the organization during his school career.

More motor vehicles are being scrapped in the United States each year than were built in the country up to 1915.

Stroudsburg, Stroud, Water Gap Union Meeting Is Planned

Second In Series Of Discussions

The second in a series of meetings to discuss all aspects of the proposed union of Stroudsburg, Stroud Township and Delaware Water Gap school districts will be held Wednesday, April 28 at 6:30 p.m.

Hosts for this meeting will be Stroud Township board members. The meeting will be held in the Clearview School cafeteria at 2000 N. Fifth St.

Two major items have been set up for thorough discussion and investigation during the dinner meeting.

First of these will be a complete financial analysis covering all three districts. Included in this category will be a review of the assessed valuation for the three districts, current financial problems and indebtedness, if any.

Second major item on the agenda will be an "overview" of the administrative setup under possible terms of the projected union.

Letters of invitation to attend the meeting are now being forwarded to members of the three boards, school district solicitors, the county superintendent and his assistant by Raymond Harding, supervising principal of Stroud schools.

At a previous meeting on March 24 at Stroudsburg High School, school directors from the three districts decided that the question of union districting should be placed before voters.

Union districting is not to be confused with jointure. To form a union of two or more districts for school purposes the question must be placed on ballots during a regular election.

In this respect union is similar to "merger." There is one basic difference.

To form a union district voters in all districts affected by the proposal must give their consent by majority vote. Under terms of merger districting, a merger may be formed by any two of the districts approving the proposal.

If any one of the districts in which union is proposed disapproves the plan, the entire move is defeated until placed before voters again.

To get the union proposal on the ballots a petition requesting its placement must be drawn up by the three interested districts. This petition is forwarded to the State Department of Public Instruction for approval.

After approval the petition is given to county commissioners with a formal request that it be placed on the ballot for the general election.

Commissioners are then responsible for putting the union question before the electorate in its final form.

Highway Travel Chief Topic Of Motor Club Meeting Today

Annual meeting of the Pocono Mountains Motor Club will delve into traffic matters with particular emphasis on the Stroudsburg's "bottleneck" tonight.

Meeting will be held in the Penn-Stroud Hotel ballroom with C. H. Buckius, chief engineer of the State Highway Department, as speaker.

J. Herbert Walker, chief of the Vacation and Tourists Bureau, State Department of Commerce, will be the other speaker. Mr. Walker will develop the resort-tourist theme as it applies to the Poconos and the state at large.

During the meeting members will have a buffet supper. Committee in charge of the meeting has set up a program of entertainment for members.

This year's annual meeting finds the Pocono Club moving into the 2,000 membership class.

Some phases of the meeting will also touch on the Stroudsburg traffic and parking situation. Recently, the club mailed to all its members findings of an American Automobile Association traffic expert on the Stroudsburg traffic situation.

Effects of the new Northeastern Turnpike Extension from Philadelphia to New York state border, with two traffic interchanges near Stroudsburg, and the first summer operation of three new bridges across the Delaware River will be reviewed.

R. LeRoy Dengler, president of the Motor Club, will conduct tonight's meeting.

No Ticket, So Train Rider Is Arrested

For attempting to ride a train without a ticket, William K. Ryan, 46, Binghamton, N. Y., was sentenced to 10 days in county jail Saturday.

Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser, East Stroudsburg, said Ryan boarded the train at Hoboken, N. J., and became boisterous enroute to Stroudsburg.

He claimed he had bought a ticket, but was unable to produce any, Bonser said. Ryan was removed from the train at Stroudsburg by DL&W Det. Harold Larson and taken before Bonser. The sentence followed. The technical charge was "illegal train riding."

Two Inch Rain Sends Rivers To New High

C. S. Weather Bureau spokesmen said last night that the Delaware River and most other major Pennsylvania rivers had "crested" and were returning to normal.

Rivers rose over the weekend due to heavy rains beginning Thursday and continuing through Saturday afternoon.

The Delaware River was reported "high" at Dingmans and Portland last night. Observers there, however, said the river level had "started to go back down" to near normal measurements.

No flood damage was reported from the Delaware, Susquehanna or Juniata Rivers. Some small streams overran their banks, observers said. Little damage was caused by these overflows, however.

Weather Bureau records showed between one and one-half and two inches of rain fell during the 48-hour period in most sections.

The Susquehanna crested at 13 feet Sunday morning at Wilkes-Barre. It is expected to drop to 12.5 early today.

Other river readings along the Susquehanna were: Williamsport, nine feet yesterday; Sunbury, eight feet; Harrisburg, 7.5 feet. The Juniata crested at 6.8 feet at Newport. It is expected to drop to 6.2 today. All other points along the Juniata were reported either crested or expected to crest this morning. No danger points appeared.

Official rain measurements in Stroudsburg showed that this area had an estimated 1.43 inches of rainfall during the three day period covering Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Total fall by days: Friday—26 inch; Saturday—1.05 inches; Sunday—32 inch.

An official forecast for the Poconos issued by the Weather Bureau predicted "occasional light rain" likely today. Skies would be "mostly cloudy" with temperatures in the high 60s the Bureau said.

Official temperatures showed a low of 31 degrees over the weekend, reached sometime Saturday or early Sunday morning.

At 8 a. m. the temperature was 51 degrees. High temperature for the weekend was 71 degrees. The temperature at 10 p. m. in Stroudsburg was 54 degrees.

Woman To Be Cited By Police

Bartonsville — A Weissport woman will be charged with failing to yield the right-of-way, following a $600 two-car collision here at 3 p.m., police said yesterday.

Stroudsburg troopers said the charge will be filed against A. Virginia Bowman, 36, who was driving north on Route 12.

The other car, operated by James W. Whalen, 26, Swoyersville, Pa., was going west on Route 611. The two cars collided at the intersection.

Damages were estimated as $400 to the Bowman car and $200 to the Whalen auto. Cuts and bruises were suffered by Miss Bowman, and Mary Ann Bowman, 23, same address. Both said they would await treatment by their own doctors.

500 Blood Recipients Asked To Promote Visit Of Bloodmobile Tuesday

If you're one of the 500 or more county residents who have received blood transfusions during the past nine months at General Hospital—you can play an all-important part in Tuesday's Bloodmobile visit.

When the Bloodmobile stops at the Elks Club in East Stroudsburg Tuesday it will have a quota of 126 pints.

The regular quota is 125 pints. There is a one-pint deficit in Monroe County.

According to Leroy Mikels, chairman of the Red Cross blood drive in this county, there is one way in which some Monroe County residents can help repay the kindness and thoughtfulness of those whose blood may have helped save their own lives. This is the way it works:

During the nine-month period between last July 7 and March 31 this year, Monroe County General Hospital has used 1048 pints of blood.

Of this total, some patients received only one pint in transfusion, others received two or three, some got as high as six or seven pints.

Altogether more than 500 county residents were given blood by the hospital, Mikels said.

This week the Red Cross is making a special appeal to those 500 persons. The appeal asks simply that each of those 500 residents ask a friend or relative to give one pint of blood to the Bloodmobile.

If this were to be done, Red Cross officials indicate, the mobile unit could be assured of success in its continued efforts to provide a working contribution to the area Blood Bank in Wilkes-Barre.

Red Cross authorities reason that the available blood bank supply cannot be allowed to rise and fall sharply with the variable success of the monthly appeal for blood donors.

Some reasonably stable form of appeal must be found to prevent the recurrence of "deficits" such as those which occurred early this year and during the last four months of 1953.

In making their appeal to persons who have actually benefitted from the Blood Bank resources, local Red Cross officials are, in effect, asking for help from those who have received it, Mikels said.

The appeal, issued last night by Mikels, asks each of those persons who have been given blood at the hospital in the past to remember the "gift of blood" someone else has given him.

Not included in the 1,048-pint total of blood used by the local hospital is an undisclosed and unestimated number of pints which have been sent outside the county to repay hospitals for transfusions given to Monroe County residents.

No accurate total can be made of this provision, Mikels said, since requests from outside hospitals are made first to the area blood bank.

Treasury Bond Sales Double Over Last Year

Sale of Series E and H, U.S. Treasury Bonds soared to new heights in Monroe County during March.

A total of $75,656 in bonds was sold during March this year, according to E. H. Wyckoff, chairman of the bond sales for Monroe.

The figure is more than double the total for 1953's March period. During that time only $37,475 in Series E and H bonds were sold.

The heavy Monroe County sale was part of an overall increase in bond sales—an increase which broke a nine year record for Pennsylvania.

More than $42 million in the bonds were sold during March, State bond sale headquarters in Philadelphia announced yesterday.

Bond sales for other nearby counties were the following: Wayne County—$55,125 as opposed to $35,343 for 1953; Pike County—$9,081 as opposed to $10,575 in 1953; Carbon County—$184,156 as opposed to $160,473 in 1953.

Citizens In Action

The Pleasant Valley School Jointure may be technically dead under school code regulations, but it's not dead in the hearts and minds of parents who recognize the crying need for adequate educational facilities for their children.

These parents, and many taxpayers who have no children in the five-township area of Hamilton, Ross, Chestnut-hill, Eldred and Polk, show evidence of a determination to get on solid ground in behalf of better school facilities.

Chestnut Hill Parent Teacher Association has taken the lead. They have invited citizens and directors of the five districts to a May 20 meeting for a "review" of the jointure project.

This sort of citizen action can go forward in many instances where official action fails. This is especially true in school matters when parents are determined to obtain a sound educational program for all children.

Horse And Buggy Law?

Many is the motorist in these days of the high-horsepower, high-speed automobile, who has said: Sure, there's a lot of people speeding. The old 50-mph limit is too low. Jack it up to 60 on good roads, and you'll find it's just as safe, and there will be far fewer violations.

A radar check on an experimental 60-miles-per-hour speed zone doesn't bear this out. It has been in effect, following a go-ahead by the Legislature, on a 33-mile section of highway in the Harrisburg district—Route 22 from Progress east to Strausstown.

On this only section of Pennsylvania highway, other than the Turnpike, where a 50-mph limit wasn't in effect, authorities found 11 per cent of the motorists exceeding 60 miles per hour and 4 per cent whizzing along at 70.

This is more drivers speeding between 60 and 70 than the average on 50-mph highways.

It moved Highways Secretary Schmidt to observe: "It seems the more you give the average motorist, the more he wants."

If a continuing study proves this out, it isn't hard to figure what will happen to proposals to hike the speed limit on other highways.

What this country needs is not an automobile with more horsepower, but an automobile driver with more horse sense.

That Second Term

Columnist Bob Allen's report of a conversation between President Eisenhower and Speaker Joe Martin on the subject of a second term in the White House finds most of us taking the position of the veteran congressman who argues that despite the Presidents insistence on not wanting a second term his party will insist upon it.

Actually, as has been increasingly evidenced in recent years, the tempo of the presidential tasks has become a killing one. Pictures of the men in the White House, placed side by side, give every indication of the strain upon the individual's health. So it is easily understandable that Mr. Eisenhower, after more than a year of the presidency, must yearn for those surely demanding but still less exacting days as Supreme Commander or as Columbia University's president.

Unfortunately for the man who is right now trying to relax for a few days in Georgia, the Republican Party has come more and more to realize that its policies cannot reach fruition in the comparatively brief years of a single term. So it seems that Joe Martin would win any bet he might make about the return of Mr. Eisenhower in 1956.

Perhaps the day will come when our nation will follow its friendly neighbor south of the border by providing a six-year term and no succession. Mexico seems to like the program, and it deserves study by our own people.

The Once Over

THE REAL NEWS NEWSREEL

Will the desecration of Easter by the hucksters, carnival boys, pitchmen and publicity hunters be permitted this year or will New York prove that last year's crack-down was in earnest and not a flash in the pan?

New musical show in the road, "The Pajama Game" believe it or not, is written around a labor fow and a slowdown in the garment center, with the employer a target for top ridicule! Newcomer in this one is Carol Haney, a sort of blonde combination Jeanne and Carol Channing who stops the show . . . Broadway's hottest drama is being played by its own business personalities, with J. J. Shubert firing everybody opposing his fight to take over where his brother Lee left off, despite his will and requests concerning nephew Milton Shubert and others . . . Show could well be called "The Chain Mutiny." . . . Or "Can't-Cant." . . . Or even "By the Beautiful Seizure."

Overhead in a crowded stream at the opening of trout season: "You're STANDING ON MY TROUT!" . . . "Miss Cheesequake" won a race the other day, and Shudda Haddim got touted off on a report her legs weren't in shape! . . . Now that Enos Slaughter has been ceded to the New York Yankees by St. Louis it would be no shock at all to hear that Missouri has handed Harry Truman over to Joe McCarthy, that Porfirio Rubirosa has abandoned Palm Beach and the Riviera for slum clearance operations and that Zsa Zsa Gabor and her mother have broken off diplomatic relations . . . It appears that New York got St. Louis' most famed slugger for almost nothing, which makes it all the harder to follow . . . (We tie it in one way or another with Mr. Dulles' flight to Europe, the Indochina crisis, the McCarthy issue and the Republican "new look.")

Now we know why President Eisenhower in a surprise coast-to-coast talk to the American people urged them to avoid the jitters . . . He was really talking of baseball fans . . . We think the other American League clubs should take the Enos Slaughter matter to U.N. . . . If the Yankee management hasn't been guilty of an act of aggression, how can we criticize what the Red Chinese are doing in Indo-China? . . . Both St. Louis and New York are trying to look innocent and make it appear the sensational switch of Enos Slaughter was a mere wrist motion . . . But we still don't believe Enos was won in a box-top contest in which the Yanks wrote the best 50-word essay on "Why we gotta have another slugger."

The Slaughter case got more publicity than the sensational "beheading" of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer by the Atomic Energy Commission . . . Both boys dealt with devastating instruments of violence . . . That a top scientist, who directed Uncle Sam's atomic and hydrogen bomb building, had been remotely suspected of ever having had a warm spot in his heart for the Communies was flabbergasting to most people . . . Yet here, long after Russia had stolen many of the secrets, was the doctor under suspension and admitting that he had associated with numerous Reds! . . . He says he courted on them years ago, never gave away a secret and is 100 per cent loyal . . . "I never read a newspaper. I had no radio or telephone. I didn't hear of the 1929 stock-market crash until long after the event," says Dr. Oppenheimer of his life up to his early 30's . . . (He must have been a fine man to greet with "What's new?" "Who won the game today?" or "What do you think of the international situation?"

"I had no understanding of the relationship of man to his society," Dr. Oppenheimer adds of this period of his life . . . The United States leads all other countries in the trapping of fur-bearing animals and in fur production.

"RAINY DAY"

Robert S. Allen Reports

Atomic-Powered Aircraft Showing Definite Progress

Washington — Atomic Chairman Lewis Strauss was quite talkative, for him, at that closely guarded meeting with the Senate Appropriations Committee to plead for more funds.

For security reasons, certain extraordinary developments he discussed cannot be reported. But the following inside information can be disclosed:

At the personal order of President Eisenhower, the Atomic Commission directed $477,400,000 from atomic projects for the purpose of increasing production of hydrogen weapons. Included in construction of plants to make the this accelerated program is the materials that go into these latest catalytic atoms.

This plan will not restrict the development of atomic weapons. This activity will continue without change or let-up. The Atomic Commission will continue to create new and more efficient atomic arms.

The U. S. will continue to conduct thermonuclear tests whenever they are deemed necessary. There isn't the remotest intention of halting these vital experiments.

Future tests of this kind will be larger than in the past.

The first atomic submarine, the USS NAUTILUS, will soon undergo initial sea tests.

The feasibility of creating atomic-powered aircraft is showing definite progress. Such planes, when achieved, would have virtually unlimited flying ranges. However, they are still a long way off. Said Strauss, "This project will necessarily require some years to complete."

Note: Barring a change in arrangements, the second H-bomb test in the current South Pacific series will be witnessed by Defense Secretary Wilson, Admiral Radford and other top officials. President Eisenhower considered going, but was unable to do so due to the ominous situation in Indo-China and the impending Geneva Conference with Russia and Red China.

What was said—Strauss' hush-hush meeting with the powerful Senate Committee was his first appearance on Capitol Hill since the historic March 1 test of the first major hydrogen bomb. His purpose was to persuade the Committee to restore $129,851,000 that the House had knocked out of the AEC's budget for new plants, plus another $12,187,700 for operating costs. President Eisenhower had strongly recommended these funds, but the House axed them.

Strauss solemnly warned the senators that failure to provide this money would dangerously retard the whole nuclear weapons program.

He particularly stressed the need for greater research in radioactivity.

The following can be published on what he said about this all-important matter:

"As test devices grow larger, the predictability of the fate of radioactive and toxic matter becomes an ever more critical factor. It is most essential that research which will broaden our knowledge with regard to these phenomena and related problems be intensified . . . Recent events in the Pacific demonstrate most cogently this need. Studies of the effect of 'fall-out' on food sources must be accelerated . . . Already knowledge of inestimable value has been gained during the current test series in connection with the reported contamination of commercial fish.

"The following program will be started with the additional funds: Study of the distribution of radioactive 'fall-out' from thermonuclear detonations; waste disposal; toxicological effects of new substances, particularly those brought into play by thermonuclear tests; effects of radiation on longevity and fertility; and genetic effects of single and repeated doses of radiation."

The Atomic Chairman was questioned closely on his surprising disclosures that nearly a half billion dollars has been switched from atomic to thermonuclear projects. This was news to the senators, and they wanted to know what it was all about. The following portions of Strauss' explanation can be reported:

"In the opinion of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, full advantage should be taken of thermonuclear weapons to insure that the U. S. has military superiority over probable aggressors . . . Plans call for using the $477,400,000 for increasing thermonuclear plant facilities and weapon production . . . Production is now increasing at a much faster rate than production expenditures."

"However, there has been no change in our atomic weapon development policy. We continue to seek versatility in our atomic stockpile and greater efficiency in the use of atomic material. We are working toward the stockpiling of a complete family of atomic weapons."

Strauss made no direct reference to the headline charge of an alleged 18 months' delay in undertaking the development of hydrogen weapons. But he hinted that he did not agree with that claim.

Mr. Carlebach hurried up from his Wall Street office to help his wife pick out a new spring bonnet. When he spied her trying it on at home later, he exclaimed in dismay, "Rose! You bought the hundred dollar one! I liked the fifty-dollar one much better!"

"Don't give it a second thought," soothed Mrs. Carlebach. "Just to make you happy, I bought the fifty-dollar one, too."

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Indochina Valuable To Soviet Universal State Because Of Great Rice Resources

The greatest value of Indochina to the Soviet Universal State is that this and the adjacent area of Thailand can make China a self-sufficient in the matter of rice. What wheat is to the people of Europe, rice is to a large part of Asia.

In modern times, China failed to produce an adequate supply of rice for her people, which is one of the principal reasons for the mass disturbances in that country which have been continuous for about a century. Rice riots were not unusual in China during the years that I lived there.

All low standard of living countries prefer the stomach-filling, energy-giving grains to the expensive muscle meats which are favored in the high standard of living countries. Whereas in Eastern Europe bread accompanies the principal dish, in the rice-eating countries the grain is the major food, gravies, vegetables, fresh or dry fish or occasional meats are trimmings. Only the soy bean competes with rice in areas where the bean is used.

The surplus producers of rice in Asia have been Burma, Indochina and Thailand. China, before the war, depended most upon Burma and Thailand (Siam) for additional rice. Korea and Japan purchased additional rice in Burma, Thailand, Indochina and Formosa. It is not to be expected that China will ever be able to supply its rice requirements, the alternatives to imports being the reduction of the population or training the people to eat other grains such as wheat or rye or such vegetables as white potatoes, which do not fit well into the Chinese cuisine. In North China and Manchuria, considerable wheat is grown and eaten, and varieties of noodle dishes are popular throughout the country. But the principal dish from the Yellow River south is rice and without it the Chinese is a very hungry man.

Therefore it becomes critically important for the economy of Red China that rice be available at all times. In pre-war days, the British handled this trade; their ships, insurance, warehouses (godowns), and large trading companies are no longer available, nor their banks to provide exchange, credit and transfer documents. Communist China has not yet developed a substitute for the capitalist processes in foreign trade. Barter will not work among Asiatic countries, unless they are all joined in some kind of economic union.

The Communists would therefore say that historic necessity impels them to force the rice surplus countries, Burma, Indochina and Thailand, into such an economic union to assure a rice supply for all of them.

It was estimated that at the end of World War II, nearly 12,000,000 acres of rice land in Southeast Asia were moving back into the jungle. Paddy fields require constant working and the labor is frightfully hard and unpalatable. As in all these countries human excrement is the principal—and in most places, the sole—fertilizer, it is even dangerous work from the standpoint of health. The workers stand in the mud often to just below their knees. Whenever possible, peasants escape from rice farming to any other kind of work that will pay as well or better. Thailand was able to maintain its rice fields during World War II and since and therefore is still a target for Red Chinese rice advance. Should Indochina fall, Thailand must be the next country to be included in an Asiatic economic union dominated by Peking by military force. The rice bowl of the world would then be Chinese. The Manchus planned such an empire but they did not succeed.

Although considerable quantities of rice are grown in the United States, the sum total is unimportant as about 90 per cent of the world supply is grown in the East of Asia. No Asiatic country could risk depending upon any supply of this grain from outside of Asia.

Those in the West who advocate a substitution of American surplus wheat for rice do not realize how the rice-eaters are wedded to that grain and how difficult it is to change the eating habits of a people. Furthermore, in Asia, farm holdings are usually small. Those who, to cover Communist activities, spoke of the Communists as "agrarian reformers" failed to say that until these countries developed large enough farms to permit the use of agricultural mechanization, little could be done to improve production. That is particularly true with regard to rice-growing.

Measurements have been made so accurate as to record the distortion of a bar of steel when a housefly lights on it.

The written language is the same for all Chinese, regardless of what dialect they speak.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

There was a very, very old film on television one night. It was one of those silent films made in the early days of the moving pictures. Anything that is older than 20 years nowadays seems like a century.

That is how things become old in these days of speed. The "Oh, look at that! Isn't it wonderful!" becomes the "Oh, look at that! Isn't it quaint?" in just about a score of years.

In this picture, a boy and a girl were going out for a spin in his brand new Model T car. Suddenly the thing stopped. They pushed it to a nearby garage in order to find out what the trouble was.

First, the owner came out. He took off the hood and the fenders. No sign of anything wrong. He called his foreman, who removed the wheels and the body. Again no sign. The foreman called the mechanic. The mechanic took over the engine and looked it over carefully, with the help of monkey wrenches, screw drivers, pliers, and many other gadgets. Still they couldn't find the cause of the breakdown.

Finally, the handyman came along with broom and dust pan in his hands. He removed the back seat under which the gas tank was located. He turned his broom upside down and stuck it into the gas tank.

"No gas," he said, and went on with his sweeping.

"That's the way it is with all too many things. Everything is getting altogether too complicated. We have to make a federal project out of even the smallest problem."

This same tendency applies to everything from the simplest household matter to the weightiest international question.

I don't know what or who is to blame for this over-complication of simple things.

Perhaps, it is that we are all getting more education than we are able to absorb. Perhaps, it is just that our whole civilization has become so complex that we do not recognize a simple problem when we see it.

Perhaps, because of our mechanical and material accomplishments, we have come to consider ourselves so important that we don't want to admit that, in reality, we are very unimportant.

We are fortunate to have a tiny cemetery right on our own property. All the people buried there—the tombstones date way back to 1758—were Osborns, the original owners of the farm of which our place is a part.

Whenever I begin to feel too important, or when life becomes too complicated to cope with it, I go to that little cemetery and talk with the first Osborn buried there.

"Hez," I say to him this full name was Hezekiah Osborn "what would you have done in a case like this? You didn't have any steam, any electricity, any telephones, any railroads, any radio, and television in those days."

"If you got sick there were no $15-a-call doctors, no wonder drugs, no great hospitals, no high priced nurses. Yet you lived to almost a hundred years, and I see by the dates on the tombstones that your progeny all lived to a ripe old age."

And then Hezekiah Osborn answers me. (Or perhaps I just hear his answer in my mind.) He says, "We were self-reliant in those days. We feared no man, no thing. We were red-blooded Americans, not the watered-down kind of which there are too many today."

"We believed in ourselves and in God. And when you believe in those two you don't need any gadgets."

Then, in a fading voice, he adds, "Now please go 'way and let me sleep."

Which I do.

An executive board meeting will be held at 3 p.m. prior to the regular meeting. Registration will be at 3:30 p.m. and the afternoon meeting will start at 4 p.m. when Mrs. Warren Edson, vice president of the Northeast District, will bring a message. Mrs. J. G. Bragg will speak on "Adventures in Poetry." At the business meeting election of officers for the coming year will be held.

Dinner (turkey) will be served in the dining hall of the church at 6:15. The evening meeting will start at 7:30 p.m., when Mrs. Carl E. Schur will speak on "Our Educational Program and Your Club." Mrs. Willard Thomas, county historian, will give the history of the county federation, followed by the installation of the officers.

The Pen Argyl Clubs will provide the music at both afternoon and evening sessions.

Reservations for the dinner should be made with either Mrs. E. R. Carpenter or Mrs. Wayne Van Vorst.

Other committees from the Portland Club have been appointed: Invocation (afternoon), Mrs. David R. Edwards; pledge of allegiance, Mrs. Horace Rusling; pianist, Mrs. Howard Ott; welcome, Mrs. E. Randall Carpenter; invocation at dinner, Mrs. E. L. Kennedy; registration, Mrs. Howard Ott; and Mrs. Morris Hauser; tickets, Mrs. Harry Bellis and Mrs. Phillip Strunk; decorations, Mrs. Phillip Strunk and Mrs. William Kennedy; hospitality, Mrs. G. J. Davies; reservations, Mrs. E. L. Randall Carpenter and Mrs. Wayne Van Vorst.

Cee Bee Club To Conduct X-Ray Canvass

Members of the Cee Bee Club brought candy and eggs to the meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Allen Keiper to fill four Easter baskets which were given to two families in the community for their children.

A flower was sent to Mrs. Harold Bonser while she was in the hospital, and plans were made for a bake sale to be held May 22 at Wyckoff's.

Mrs. Ann Shafer told the group about the county-wide Chest X-Ray survey, scheduled for May 3 through May 15. All members of the club will act as canvassers for the survey.

Following the business meeting, games were played with prizes going to Rena Shick, Hazel Bonser and Lorraine Derrick. Mrs. Betty Altomose assisted Mrs. Keiper in serving refreshments.

The next meeting will be held May 19 at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Martin.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Let's see — curried eggs, egg salad sandwiches, deviled eggs — and that ought to take care of the Easter baskets, not counting the eggs where the dye soaked through the cracks in the shell so they're given to the dogs.

Actually, the effects of Easter will last far longer. Christmas and Easter sort of recharge your spiritual batteries, but to keep them at their highest potential you have to run up a little spiritual mileage along the way.

Speaking of mileage, the folks who think they could solve our traffic problem by diverting it to Ninth Street should have tried to cross over to Tenth yesterday afternoon. A solid line from here to Mt. Pocono, apparently.

However, it was worth the wait, because on Tenth St., Mrs. Emma Rarick was celebrating her 90th birthday. You'd never have believed it though without her family to bear witness. The vigor and strength of these nonagenarians never ceases to amaze me, what with me being about ready to fall apart at less than half their age.

Half the town, or so it seemed, turned out at the two morning services yesterday to fill the church, balcony, choir lofts and all to hear Rev. Ernest Campbell preach for the last time and to wish them both God-speed after the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Layton Getz

Miss Berger Is Bride Of Walter Getz

Miss Ruth Ellen Berger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Berger of Stroudsburg RD2, became the bride of Walter Layton Getz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Getz of Stroudsburg RD3, at 1:30 o'clock on Easter afternoon before the candle-lit altar which was banked with lilies, of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg. Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace Church pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a gathering of close friends of the bridal couple.

The bride was attired in a light blue gabardine suit with white accessories. She wore a red rosebud corsage. The respective mothers were attired in Navy-blue suits with matching accessories and each wore a red rosebud corsage. Immediately after the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Bartonville. A tiered wedding cake and other refreshments were served.

The bride attended Stroudsburg High School and is employed at the Woolworth Store in Stroudsburg. The bridegroom also attended the Stroudsburg High School and is employed by the A. A. Lauffer Garage.

The newlyweds will be at home to their friends in their newly furnished apartment in Snyder'sville.

Local Council To Demonstrate At Northampton

Victoria Council, No. 165, Daughters of America, held their final practice for the school of instruction to be held April 28 at Northampton. The local council will demonstrate election procedure. Members taking part are requested to meet in front of the Odd Fellows hall at 6 p.m. on April 28.

At the council meeting on Friday night, plans were also made for the annual banquet to be held June 3 at the Green Lantern. The past councilors will meet Friday night at a place to be announced later.

Truth Class At Reimel's

Portland — Truth Class of the Methodist Sunday School met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Newton Reimel with Miss Edith Emery as co-hostess. It was reported that a good amount of money was received from the sale of baskets, which the class made.

Those present were Mrs. Reimel, Mrs. Fred Garner, Miss Edith Emery, Mrs. Margaret McCoy, Mrs. Clarence Myers, Mrs. Elwood Baker, Mrs. Fred Shumaker, Mrs. Daisy Decker and Mrs. Emma Ross.

Meeting Cancelled

The executive board of the Stroudsburg Junior Woman's Club has cancelled its meeting scheduled for Tuesday, April 20. Mrs. John Sibley, president, announced that instead the board will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 4, prior to the regular club meeting.

Kunkletown Fire Co. Aux. Plans Benefit

Kunkletown — The Ladies Auxiliary of the Kunkletown Fire Company had a benefit demonstration at their meeting on Monday night at Pearson's Hall.

At the business meeting, plans were completed for the electrical demonstration to be held in conjunction with the Good Will Auction at the next meeting, May 10, in the church basement.

Mrs. Floyd Smith brought the bath salts which a group of members made recently for the auxiliary members to sell. Mrs. Herman Barlieb presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Irvin Nase President Of Analomink WSCS

Analomink — Mrs. Irvin Nase was elected president of the Analomink WSCS at her home in Analomink on Tuesday night in the place of Mrs. Kenneth Smiley. Mrs. Robert Bates was elected vice president; Mrs. Herman Pensyl was elected treasurer in the place of Mrs. Mae Cramer, and Mrs. Doris Miller was re-elected treasurer.

Tentative plans were discussed for a bazaar, and refreshments were served. Those present were: Mrs. Robert Bates, Mrs. Doris Miller, Mrs. Kenneth Smiley, Mrs. Cora Warner, Mrs. Harold Nauman, Mrs. Herman Pensyl, Miss Florence Bates, and the hostess, Mrs. Irvin Nase.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 4, at the home of Mrs. Herman Pensyl.

William Sherer Honored On 78th Birthday

Kresgeville — A birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Sherer in honor of the 78th birthday of his father, William Sherer, with the following present:

Mr. and Mrs. David Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Haydt and daughter, Clarence Mackes, William Hittner, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bruch and children, Elwood Sherer, Clark Sherer, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Sherer and children, Kresgeville; Willard Sherer and family, Aquashicola; Mr. and Mrs. Marley Johnson, Palmerton; Howard Switzgabel, Mrs. Elsie Christman and Charles Dieter, Little Gap.

Jolly Janes At Metzgar's

Bartonville — Mrs. Mitchell Metzgar of Analomink entertained the Jolly Jane Club of Bartonville at her home on Tuesday night. Emma Dunbar was awarded the hostess prize. The next meeting was postponed until May 4 when Mrs. Kathryn Hertung will entertain the group for the last meeting of the year.

They plan to hold several special meetings to work on cancer dressings. Refreshments were served with Easter favors of rabbits and chickens to Mrs. Vernon Wallace, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. James Canfield Jr., Mrs. Frank Hertung, Mrs. Donald Hartman, Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mrs. Roy Schreck, Mrs. Fred Walters, Mrs. Richard Coss, Mary Allegar and Emma Dunbar.

Prizes Given In Egg Hunt At Custard's

The children of Middle Smithfield found all of the prize eggs before the rains descended on the lawns around the Russell Custard home on Oak Grove Drive. They also found a great many other eggs which had been hidden although some remained hidden when the rain drove them indoors.

Each child received a chocolate egg, and special prizes went to those finding the prize eggs: Larry Belge won the prize provided by Adolph Rake; Garry and Ronnie Courtwright, the two prizes given by LeRoy Mikels; Gregg Kolp, that provided by J. R. Eshback; Linda Van Why, by Jack Shotwell, and Tim Primrose, the egg given by Ben Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Custard were hosts to the children of the township.

Mount Pocono Fire Co. Aux. To Decorate Kitchen

Mount Pocono — The ladies auxiliary of the Mount Pocono Fire Company met on Tuesday night at the fire hall with Mrs. Wardell Megargel, vice president, presiding in the absence of Mrs. Gerald Posingel.

The auditorium which has been undergoing extensive improvements consisting of a new acoustic system installed in the ceiling, side wall of mahogany paneling and glass block windows is almost completed.

During the business session it was decided to redecorate the kitchen. It was also suggested that new draperies be needed. The latter to be decided at the May meeting.

Mrs. Edna Marbel was accepted as a new member. Mrs. George DeHaven, Mrs. Richard DeHaven, Mrs. Delano DeSanto, Miss Ann Dudewicz and Mrs. Walter Dutler were appointed on the refreshment committee for May.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served to the 32 members present at tables decorated in the Easter motif by the hostess committee: Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Berne Cramer, Mrs. Paul Derr, Mrs. Paul DeSanto and Mrs. Joseph DeSanto.

Mrs. Rarick Marks 90th Birthday

Mrs. Emma Rarick, of Main St., Stroudsburg, is 90 years old today. However, her family celebrated the birthday yesterday with a party at the home of her son, George Rarick, of 35 North Tenth St., Stroudsburg.

Born in Tioga on April 19, 1864, Mrs. Rarick has lived in the Stroudsburgs for about the past 35 years. Before that she and her family lived on a big farm near Seattle, Wash. She had eight children of whom six are living. Three of them live in the Stroudsburgs, Henry, George, and Mrs. Mary Ann Michelfelder. She has a daughter, Ethel, in Corning, N. Y., her oldest son, Lafayette, in Tioga; and C. B. Rarick of Endicott, N. Y.

Mrs. Rarick comes of a long-lived family, none of whom died before the age of 70. Her sister,

Four Generations At Predmore's For Easter

Easter found four generations gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Predmore, Arlington Heights.

Among the guests were Mr. Predmore's grandfather, Mrs. Ida Predmore's grandmother, Mrs. Ida Predmore; and his son, Zane Predmore.

Mrs. Marion Hobson, with whom she lived in East Stroudsburg, died a year ago at the age of 95.

However, her own will as well as a natural longevity brought her back from a 21-week illness this year, and her family has a hard time making her take it easy. "When you've worked hard all your life, you just can't sit around," she protested yesterday.

Marvin Is Honored On 70th Birthday

Bartonville — Francis M. Marvin was honored at a celebration of his 70th birthday on April 14. A party had been arranged by his wife and his daughters, Mrs. Doris Topfer and Mrs. Marjorie Poirard. It was held at the Marvin home on Saturday night, April 10. Mr. Marvin received many cards and gifts, as well as three birthday cakes.

A chicken dinner was served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Marvin and daughter, Donna Jean, of Paterson, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Poirard of Briar Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Topfer and daughters, Sandra and Susan of Millington, N. J. and Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Marvin.

After dinner, other members of the families joined the celebration when group pictures were taken. Present for the festivities were the members of the dinner party and Mr. and Mrs. John Kresge and son, Danny, Mr. and Mrs. James Hawk and daughter, Gail Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gottler and sons, Bobby and Randall, all of Bartonville.

Special Meeting Today

Victoria Council, Daughters of America, will hold a special meeting tonight at 7 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall, called because of the death of one of their members, Mrs. Nellie Millard.

I wonder how many of our salespeople awoke yesterday? After assisting in the candy department when Saturday's rush was at its height, I know what it is to be bone-tired — in fact, I still am. I roused sufficiently to hear the children diving under furniture and slamming cupboard doors in their mad search for Easter eggs at six a.m., and even managed to dress and walk to church. But I'm not awake, and haven't been all day. Even when reading the first chapter of Emmett Kelly's autobiography, "Clown," before dozing off, I wasn't really awake. That chapter will just have to be re-read at some future date if it's going to really register.

"Clown" is the story of Kelly's life "in tatters and smokes" as he sums it up, and the jacket boasts his picture, in the make-up of Willie, the monstrous hobo in whose breast hope springs eternal. You know Willie, of course. He's the tragic little man who tries to sweep up the Ringling Brothers spotlight and deposit it in a trash can . . . the bumbling fellow who just can't crack a peanut shell until he whacks it with a big sledge hammer that pulverizes it . . . the sad-faced buffoon who seems eternally on the verge of tears, but always springs back uncrushed in the face of life's cruellest rebuffs.

If you would like to read "Clown," let Florence Predmore know. She isn't stocking it at the moment, but is always happy to special order those volumes desired by Wyckoff's reading public. If you're clown-hearted, you'll find this "Clown" a most enjoyable companion. The publisher is Prentice Hall, the price $3.95.

String painting is a medium I became acquainted with only this past Thursday when attending open house at the Ramsey School.

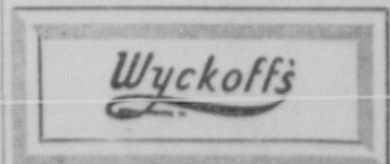

The art work of our youngsters never ceases to amaze me, and I'm sure our public schools of today are giving children more pleasure along with their education than ever before.

Wandering into Olivia Dreher's room, I saw quite a few of these colorful abstracts which, she tells me, are made by dipping a piece of string into paint, and pressing it in the desired formation upon the drawing paper. Later in the day I found some ceramic ash trays in our gift department that seems to have been colored in practically the same way.

These very modern accessories stand high on wrought iron frames and come in various colors . . . black with a thread of white, chartreuse, yellow, green, and red with a string-like tracing of black. In two sizes these are priced at 49c and 98c. If you need ashtrays, why not tie a string around your finger and remember to see them next time you come in?

In his book, Emmett Kelly talks a great deal about makeup — the varied applications of putty, lard, and creams that make each clown a distinctive personality. Lots of things come masked these days — even candlesticks. The idea is old as the hills really, but we haven't had these flickerless candle holders in our store until recently when they arrived from Spain. Portugal now sends a similar shipment.

These tall candle holders actually resemble vases, but are open at one side. The lighted taper squats safely inside, shielded from a sudden breeze or a draft. When not in use these are ornamental and gay. "Taper, taper burning bright" — bright, wise buys these.

Goodrich Manager Offers Values On His Tenth Anniversary

Edgar Van Why

Edgar Van Why Started With Store In '44

Things seem to happen in cycles for Edgar Van Why, manager of the B. F. Goodrich store, 502 Main St., and they invariably reach a climax about the time April rolls around.

It all started in 1944 when he joined the Goodrich organization here as a service man. The month was April. Then, the following year, he was promoted to credit and operating manager in April. Five years later—in April, 1950—he was promoted to store manager.

Ed, as he's known by most of his customers, recalled over the weekend that the local store was opened at its present location in 1936. He didn't say, however, whether the event took place in April.

All this week Mr. Van Why is offering many special values in commemoration of his tenth anniversary. Biggest event is the trade-in sale of B. F. Goodrich "Life-Saver" Tubeless Tires.

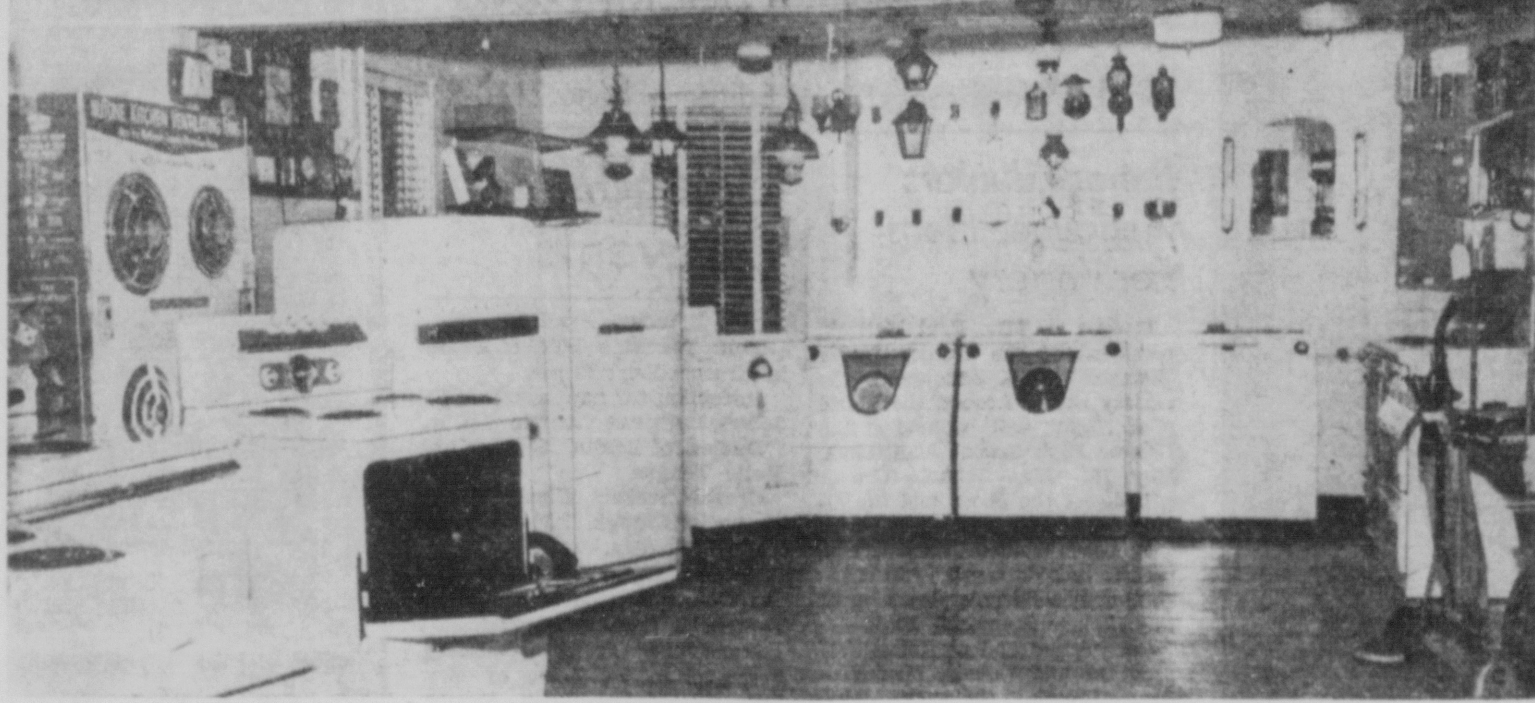

This is the fabulous new BFG tire you've seen demonstrated on the Burns & Allen TV show Monday nights.

"Don't try to squeeze the last mile from your tires," Mr. Van Why warns. "It's not worth the risk. Compare the safety... compare the cost and you'll switch to 'Life-Savers'."

For a convincing example of just how well the Life-Saver Tubeless Tire works for you, see the demonstration at the local store.

Its unique squeeze-action tread literally wipes a wet road so dry you can light a match in the tracks.

Mr. Van Why uses a cross section of the Life-Saver tread to show how the tire performs. Even on wet glass the tread holds so

Green, Yellow, Gray For Kitchen

A dramatic kitchen with deep green walls above gleaming white cabinets and equipment has counter tops of clear yellow. The floor covering combines tones of deep green and gray. Touches of flame color in the accessories add brilliance and charm to the room. The ceiling is painted a clear yellow to match the counter tops.

Yetter Sells McCullough Chain Saws

Nobody will call you "the old wood-chopper" if you use the speedy new McCullough Chain saw. See one demonstrated at Van D. Yetter's Route 402, near Marshalls Creek, and you'll exclaim "This is the way to really saw wood!"

New gasoline-powered McCullough chain saw cuts firewood, plowwood, saw logs, fence posts, poles, ties, props, beams. It fells and limbs trees. It bucks logs and maintains orchards. In any kind of woodcutting, this new, professional-quality chain saw will save its purchase price in less than a year, often in less than a month!

It will take you just about one minute to fell a tree, leaving a stump less than 1 inch high. Saws full power without adjustment upside down, rightside up, any angle the work calls for. Weighs only 20 pounds complete! Balanced for easiest felling, bucking, pruning, limbing, ripping.

Lane Cedar Chests Are Popular Now

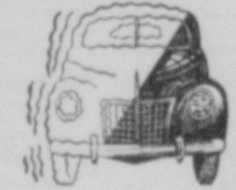

This is the time of year that young girls—be they graduates or brides—hope to be remembered with a beautiful Cedar Chest.

Through the years the Lane Cedar Chest has become synonymous with all such special occasions as graduation, weddings, birthdays, engagements, and anniversaries. Truly functional, it is the "gift that gathers gifts."

You can see the complete Lane selection—a wide range of models and prices—at the A. C. Miller Furniture Store, corner of Main & Fourth Sts., Stroudsburg.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

It's been only a week since your's truly pounded this typewriter, but in that short space of time a million things seem to have happened—some good and others quite bad. Although a lot of things went on last week, it had an almost death-like silence compared to the one that descends on us at the present time. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and as full of athletic activity as was the Easter baskets of the Monroe County youngsters yesterday morning.

Harry Warner, first baseman in the farm system of the Boston Braves, is home visiting his family for a brief spell before returning to the baseball wars. Entries in the local baseball circuit have trained to an extent that practice contests were on the agenda yesterday. Pocono A. C. and Tannersville collided at Gordon Giffels field, while Barrett and Reiders faced each other on the latter's home terrain. Reiders is being managed by Harry Trach, Navy veteran, this season.

Don Chase was the first golfer to use the Mountain Manor driving range this season. Ray Lambert, recently accepted into the Professional Golfers Association, is currently in his fourth year as Mountain Manor pro. Russell Scott, owner of Mountain Manor, will have one of the finest nine hole courses in the area in about a year. The planned course will measure something like 3,000 yards. Rain hampered the opening of at least three local golf clubs last week, but the dampness failed to halt the usual hardy club swingers.

Gus Keigler, coach of the Honesdale High entry in the Wayne County Basketball Conference, has been relieved of his court duties following a meeting of the Honesdale Union district school directors last week. No successor has been named. Vote for the dismissal was 4-2, with the pair of no's stating that they voted in that manner because no definite replacement has been selected. No reason was given for the shift, although the change has been under consideration for some time.

Honesdale, a class "B" school playing in a class "C" league, won nine and lost five in the 1950-1951 campaign; featured an 11-3 mark in the 1951-1952 season; 9-6 in 1952-1953, and a lowly mark of two wins and 12 setbacks during the campaign just completed. This scribe has been informed that Keigler has been on the pan for some time and one or more interests have been carrying on a running feud with the veteran mentor for the past season or two. The feud will undoubtedly come to an end now.

Dr. Frank P. Maguire, commissioner of Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association officials, is a patient at the Monroe County General Hospital at the present time. Dr. Maguire, one of the hardest workers and sincerest men it has been this reporter's privilege to know, is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. This column wishes the outstanding athletic figure a speedy recovery and an equally fast return to the active life he enjoys so much.

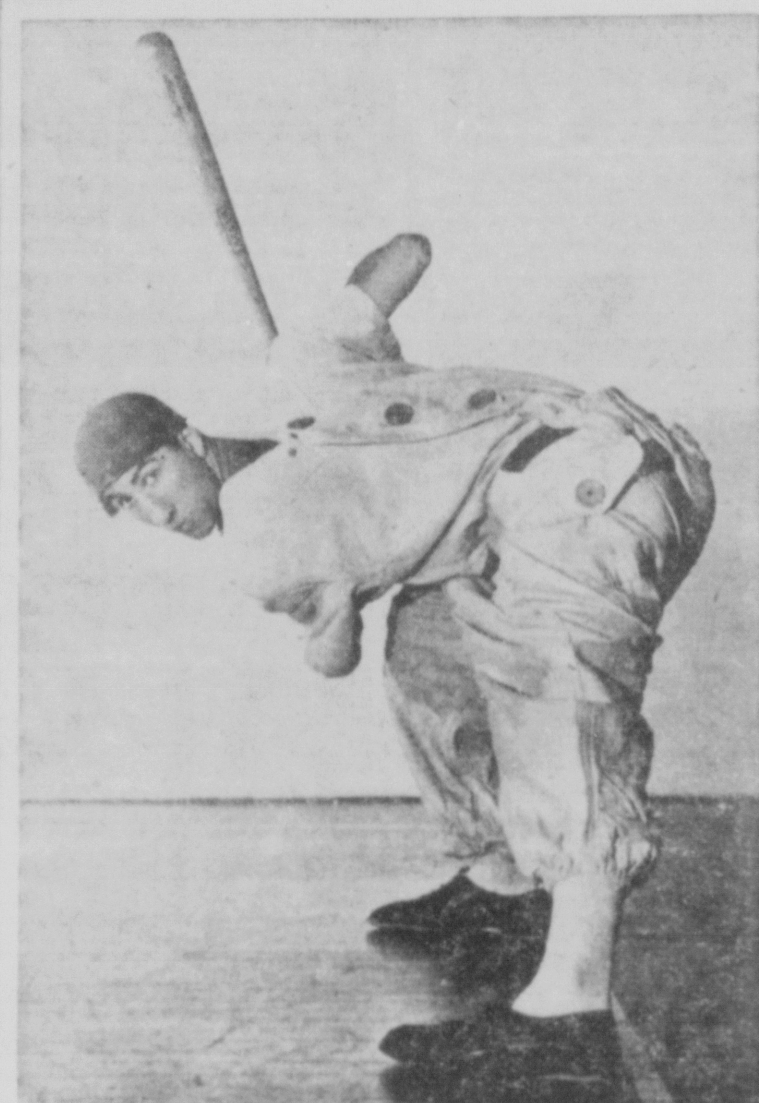

Harry Werkheiser, baseball and basketball coach at Pocono High, is home again after five days in the Moses-Taylor Hospital, in Scranton. Harry had an operation performed on his foot to correct an old baseball injury. Dr. Robert Nauman writes from Louisiana State University that he is anxious following the activities of the Varsity "E" Club, even though he is currently in Baton Rouge, La. Dr. Nauman, who also corrected this scribe's spelling, is a brother of Reg Nauman, president of the Varsity "E" Club, and son of C. A. "Phil" Nauman, one of the founders of Little League baseball in East Stroudsburg.

Gene Stem, former pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos, has been discharged from the Marine Corps and was working at Waycross, Ga., farm base of the Milwaukee Braves, this spring. Gene Law, another former hurler with the Poconos, has been optioned out by Indianapolis, the Cleveland farm in the class "AAA" American Association. Norman Camp and Jim Barnhardt, with Bloomingdale and Bangor both of the now defunct Class "D" North Atlantic League at one time, were also optioned by Indianapolis.

Bookings for Max Patkin, the baseball clown who will speak at the annual Varsity "S" Club's spring banquet at the Penn-Stroud Hotel next Monday, are handled by Ed Gottlieb. Gottlieb is also coach and owner of the Philadelphia Warriors, a member of the National Basketball Association. Patkin is billed as the "Master of Pan-tomime."

Among the best bits of news to make the rounds last week was the admission of Joe Shea to West Point. Joe formally held down a tackle berth with the East Stroudsburg High football squad. Shea, a member of Uncle Sam's Army, made the grade on a second attempt, after narrowly missing admission on an examination taken more than a year ago. Joe's success proves that if the goal is worth reaching, it certainly is worth pursuing.

Heavy Schedule Of Sports Strikes Area This Week

CLOWNING STANCE—Max Patkin, most famous baseball clown in the United States at the present time, is shown above in one of his well known batting stances. Patkin will be the guest speaker next Monday, when the Varsity "S" Club presents its annual spring banquet at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Tickets, at $2.50 each, may be obtained from club members and students and faculty members at Stroudsburg High.

Roberts, Simmons Combine To Hurl Double Win For Phillies

Philadelphia (AP)—Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons walked away with both ends of an Easter Sunday doubleheader yesterday as the Philadelphia Phillies trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0 and 7-1.

Roberts pitched the first game shutout, helped along by Earl Torgerson's first inning home run with two men on. Del Ennis was the big gun in Simmons' second game victory with a pair of home runs good for five runs batted in. The first game was Philadelphia's third shutout in a row. When the Pirates scored an unearned run off Simmons in the sixth inning of the second game, it marked the passage of 30 consecutive innings in which Phillies pitchers blanked the opposition.

Roberts, at his best, allowed only four hits and fanned eight. With the exception of Pittsburgh's Dick Smith who cracked a triple over Richie Ashburn's head in the third inning and Frank Thomas who made third on an error and an outfield fly in the second, not a man advanced beyond first base in the opener.

It was Simmons' second victory over Pittsburgh. He beat them 6-0 in Pittsburgh last Wednesday and started the run of scoreless innings. In both games, victories for the Phillies were assured in the first inning. The three-run first inning in the opener—Willie Jones and Ashburn were on base when Earl Torgerson homered—was more than enough for victory.

And Ennis' first home run in the first inning of the second game would have afforded Simmons a safe though narrow margin. As the Phils went after Vernon Law in that game, Torgerson walked and, with the count two-and-two, Ennis blasted the ball into the left field seats.

Tough Day For Catchers

Chicago (AP)—Easter Sunday proved a tough day on catchers for the St. Louis Cardinals.

In the opener, a 6-4 St. Louis victory, starting catcher Sal Yvars split the little finger on his right hand while Randy Jackson, Chicago third baseman, was batting in the second inning.

Time was called in the first inning of the second game when Del Rice bruised his right arm charging the box seat wall trying to catch "Hank" Sauer's high foul. Rice, however, remained in the game as starter Stu Miller's battery mate.

Gene Baker's home run in the second and a walk, singles by "Hank" Sauer and Baker, plus a wild pitch by Raschi gave the Cubs a 3-0 lead. Cub starter Paul Minner had allowed the Cards only a "Rip" Repulski's first-inning single through the first six frames.

Victor Raschi was credited with the victory. The ex-Yankee pitched six innings, allowing all the Cubs' runs and seven hits. Gerry Staley relieved him after pinchhitter Frank Baumholtz opened the Cubs' half of the seventh with a homer. He blanked the Cubs the rest of the way on a hit.

An Easter Day crowd of 15,774 watched the Card recovery from three straight National League losses—including a 23-13 pasting by the Cubs Saturday.

Redlegs Sweep Two Contests From Braves

Milwaukee (AP)—Cincinnati's Redlegs parlayed sparkling pitching and power hitting into 6-4 and 5-3 victories over the punchless Milwaukee Braves yesterday before 27,267 fans in the year's first doubleheader at County Stadium.

Jim Greengrass drove in six runs to raise his RBI total to 12 for the first five games before hurting his back sliding into second base in the third inning of the finale. The Cincinnati slugger drove in four in the first game with a home run and a single and another pair in the second with a double and single.

Extra Bases
The Redlegs collected only five hits off Bobby Duhl in the nightcap, but three were for extra bases. Rookie catcher Ed Bailey cracked a home run into the right field stands with the bases empty in the sixth and Ted Kluszewski matched Greengrass's double to round out the three-run first inning. Greengrass's single accounted for the other run behind Gus Bell's walk and an infield out in the third.

The Braves got two runs off "Bud" Podbielan on four hits in the fourth and the other on Jack Dittmer's home run inside the foul marker in right field in the eighth.

Big Bat
Greengrass' bat was more than enough for the Redlegs in the opener as they chased lefty Chet Nichols, making his first start after a two-year Army stint.

Greengrass crashed a 350-foot homer into the leftfield bleachers in the third inning with two on after lashing a single to drive home Cincinnati's first run in the opening inning. The Redlegs got a pair of runs in the seventh off reliever Ernie Johnson on two singles and two infield outs.

Milwaukee played both games without Andy Pafko, injured outfielder. Pafko was hit in the head by a pitched ball on opening day.

Turner, Jones Clash Again

New York (AP)—A return bout between middleweight contenders Gil Turner and Bobby Jones and the appearances of three young, able fighters with long winning streaks highlights the week's boxing program.

The three, light heavyweight Floyd Patterson, and welterweights Jed Black and Tony DeMarco, are favored to keep their streaks alive.

Break
Jones, a 27-year-old veteran from Oakland, Calif., got the break of his career when he upset the 23-year-old Turner in Philadelphia last March 10 in an exciting 10-rounder. That victory catapulted the clever Californian into the number six contender's post, and dropped Turner from fourth to seventh. Turner's record is 42-5 and Jones', 36-18-8.

Their 10-rounder at the Philadelphia Arena (10 p.m., EST) Wednesday, will be telecast by CBS.

Basilio Seeks Ring Revenge

Syracuse, N. Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, the number one welterweight contender, set his sights yesterday on a return fight with Italo Scorticini after erasing a draw with Pierre Langlois from his record in a unanimous decision here Saturday night.

Although a return Basilio-Scorticini fight has not been announced, the two scrappers may meet here soon, possibly in a nationally televised fight May 15.

No Trouble
Scorticini and Basilio fought to a draw in Miami in January. Basilio's last fight before defeating Langlois easily in their return bout Saturday night.

Basilio has made no bones of his feelings about the two successive draws. He says he thinks he won both and is out to prove that he can lick the tricky Scorticini from Italy.

In Saturday night's fight Basilio came up with a new crouching style which confused Langlois.

Colts Sign Coach
Baltimore (AP)—Russ Murphy, former backfield coach at Cornell and the University of North Carolina, has been signed as assistant coach of the Baltimore Colts in the National Football League.

Tigers Take Over Lead In American League With Favorable Decision Over Orioles, 8-3

Baltimore (AP)—Harvey Kuenn and big Walt Dropo swung heavy bats yesterday afternoon as the Detroit Tigers rapped three Baltimore pitchers for 15 hits and an 8-3 victory over the Orioles before 20,037 fans at Memorial Stadium.

Kuenn and Dropo, who drove in three runs, each collected two singles and a double to ease the way for Steve Gromek to record his second pitching victory of the season, both at the expense of the Orioles for whom he once worked as a minor leaguer.

The victory was Detroit's fourth in five games and enabled the Tigers to remain atop the American League. Gromek gave up nine hits, but was behind only once after the Orioles scored a run in the third on singles by pitcher Don Larsen and centerfielder Gil Coan. Larsen taking his second hitting from the Tigers, went out after six innings, after giving up four runs and seven hits.

The Tigers went ahead 2-1 in the fourth with Dropo and Al Kaline hits doing the propelling. Kaline, the 19-year-old Baltimore native playing right field, had two hits and drove in as many runs.

The Tigers, whose only loss so far was administered by the Orioles, doubled their score in the sixth on a double by Bill Tuttle and single by Frank Bolling. The Orioles drew up to within one run with a brace in their half of the inning on a double by Dan Lenhardt and triple by Vern Stephens.

But the Tigers teed off for four straight hits and runs off Lou Kretlow. They greeted Marlin Stuart with another hit and another run to sew up the contest.

They added another for good measure in the eighth on a single by Jim Delsing and Dropo's double.

Senators Finish Strong To Turn Tables On Yankees, 9-3

New York (AP)—Left-hander Mickey McDermott held the slump-shackled New York Yankees to five hits yesterday as the Washington Senators won 9-3 before a crowd of 16,952. The southpaw, who was obtained from Boston in a trade during the winter, was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the ninth and right-hander "Sonny" Dixon finished.

Relief
McDermott, fourth straight lefty to start against New York, had a two-hitter for seven innings. He wavered in the eighth when three more came. "Hank" Bauer homered and Mickey Mantle belted a 470-foot triple off the center field wall—the first time in the memory of Yankee writers that a ball had reached the distance barrier on the fly. Mantle scored on a sacrifice hoist by "Yogi" Berra.

Catcher Joe Tripton led the Nats' 13-hit assault with three singles. Rookie right-hander Bob Grim was kayoed in the seventh and sustained his first major league loss.

Red Sox Split With A's On Jensen's Second Homer Of Day

Boston (AP)—Jackie Jensen hit reliever Ed Bertschey's first pitch of the 13th inning for a home run last night to give the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the second game of a doubleheader at Fenway Park.

Bob Tipton pitched out of several tight spots to win the opener, 6-4. Jensen ended the three-hour and 16 minute nightcap with his second homer of the day and third of the season—all against the A's.

The game played under lights from the seventh inning on—was completed under a new law which permits Sunday games to be finished under the arcs.

Big Blows
Gus Zernial hit two home runs for Philadelphia while Boston rookie first baseman Harry Agganis accounted for the other three Red Sox runs with a homer in the third inning off starter Arnold Portocarrero.

Trice, who came up from Philadelphia's Ottawa farm in the International League late last season gave up 11 hits, including Jensen's two-run homer in the third inning, but was tough in the clutch in the opener.

Philadelphia knocked out Boston rookie right-hander Tom Brewer in the fourth inning after he had given up seven hits and four runs.

Two Doubles Fail To Score

Boston (AP)—In a baseball oddity, the Boston Red Sox failed to score against Philadelphia in the second inning of the first game of a doubleheader yesterday even though the first two Boston batters doubled.

Rookie first baseman Harry Agganis led off with a double. Then Charley Maxwell poked the ball to deep left centerfield near the 379-foot mark.

Fears Catch
Agganis held second base—apparently thinking Vic Power would make the catch and intending to go to third after the catch. When the ball fell in for two bases, Agganis could only move to third. Pitcher Bob Trice settled down and prevented a score, going on to a 6-4 victory.

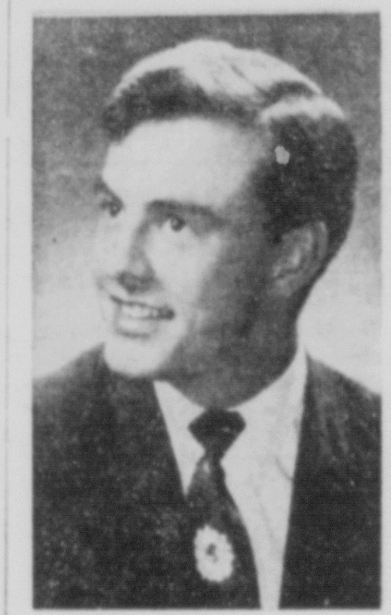

Fans, Police, Ushers Fight
Chicago (AP)—A score of ushers and policemen fought with three fans in a free-for-all on the playing field at the Chicago Cubs-St. Louis Cardinals doubleheader yesterday. The brawl delayed play some five minutes.

One fan, apparently attempting to get into the range of the television cameras, walked onto the field from a box seat section gate near the St. Louis dugout in Wrigley Field.

Situation
When a single usher attempted to block his path, a fight broke out between the two. Two more fans charged over the top of the Cardinal dugout to join the fight.

It took five minutes for police and more ushers to clear the field.

Joe Shea

Shea Wins Admission To West Point

Joe Shea, former football star at East Stroudsburg High school, has won admission to the United States Military Academy at West Point, it was learned recently.

Shea, a tackle on the 1952 East Stroudsburg High grid machine, was notified last week that he had passed the examination taken during the first week of March.

The former East Stroudsburg High academic student, passed a second examination after being appointed to West Point by Rep. Francis E. Walters. Shea failed an early exam for the Military Academy by the narrow margin of two mathematical problems.

This time the resident of 139 Anaslomink St. passed the examination with flying colors.

Army
Shea has been serving as an enlisted man in the Army since last July, when he was drafted into the service. He served two months at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., but has been attending a prep school at Steward Air Force Base, at Newburgh, N. Y., since last September.

The prep school course runs until Sunday, May 23, at which time Shea may be discharged as an enlisted man in the Army.

Joe, the son of Mrs. Verna Shea, is scheduled to enter the Military Academy on July 6, where he will be a student four years and then will re-enter the Army as a lieutenant.

Shea was one of the big reasons for East Stroudsburg enjoying its most successful football campaign in history in 1952, when the Cavaliers won eight and lost only one contest and that by the margin of only six points.

Joe, who hopes to play on the Army grid machine, is approximately six feet, one inch tall and weighs 185 pounds.

Shea returns to Steward Air Force Base today following an Easter leave at his home.

Baseball, Track, Tennis Hold Spotlight

Monroe County and surrounding areas hit the first big week in scholastic and collegiate sports this week, following a light schedule prior to the Easter vacation and a week of inactivity due to the holidays.

Bangor plays an exhibition baseball game tomorrow, at Nazareth. The contest will not figure in the standing of the Lehigh-Northampton League.

But the lid actually comes off on Wednesday, when the most interesting baseball game and top track meet of the season are listed for the same date and almost identical time in East Stroudsburg.

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg high schools launch their baseball campaigns by playing each other for the first time in three years and also clash in the opening contest for the initial time in the long series.

Starting Time
The tussle will take place on the East Stroudsburg High field, at 4 p. m.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College opens its track season against the toughest type of opposition in the form of West Chester State Teachers College, on the Normal Hill track. This headliner is also listed for Wednesday and will get underway at 3 p. m. This meet was originally slated for Saturday, April 10, but was postponed from that date.

ESSTC also has a busy day on the baseball and men's tennis fronts. Both oppose Rider College, in Trenton. Wednesday's outing will be the third of the diamond season for ESSTC and the first tennis clash. ESSTC has won both of its baseball games to date.

On Thursday the women's tennis team on Normal Hill plays host to Ursinus College, at 3 p. m.

Stroudsburg High opens its portion of the Lehigh Valley League baseball campaign on Friday, when the Mountaineers invade Palmerston at 4 p. m. East Stroudsburg will play its first Lehigh-Northampton League contest at the same time on Friday, when the Cavaliers play host to Parkland, at East Stroudsburg Playground. Bangor meets Coplay, at Coplay, in its Lehigh-Northampton opener.

Relay
An ESSTC mile relay team will also take part in the Penn Relays, at Philadelphia's Franklin Field, on Friday.

ESSTC is listed for both a baseball game and men's tennis match on Normal Hill on Saturday.

The Warriors tangle with Fairleigh-Dickinson College in baseball at 2 p. m. The ESSTC men's tennis squad opposes Brooklyn Poly on the same date, and also at 2 p. m.

A full schedule is also on tap next week.

Reds, Chisox Trade Pair

Milwaukee (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs yesterday traded infielder Grady Hatton to the Chicago White Sox for infielder Johnny Lipon and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Bonus Player
Hatton, a $25,000 bonus player, has been a member of the Cincinnati team since 1946. His best year with the club was in 1947 when he hit .281 and drove in 77 runs.

Lipon broke into the majors with Detroit.

POSED FOR FORMAL PORTRAIT Saturday night at Tannersville Fire Hall were members of the Monroe-Pike Pomona Grange No. 64. They are members of the fifth degree team and "Pomona's Court."

Pocono Art Group Meets On Tuesday

The Pocono Mountains Art Group will meet Tuesday night April 20th, in Wyckoff's recreation hall, Sixth Street.

A feature of the meeting will be the talk to be given by Robert Wolbach of New York.

Mr. Wolbach will demonstrate the use of color. He will tell what it is and how to use it.

A jury of professional judges was selected at the last meeting of the group to pass on the paintings which will be sent to Skytop for an exhibition commencing May 1 and continuing until June 15.

P.M.A.G. members are to bring in paintings on the 20th when they attend the meeting. The jury, is composed of Sterling Strasser, Mrs. Rachel Bray and Peter Heiden. The dates for the out-door show to be held at the Court House Square have been set for July 16 and 17.

MRS. RUTH O. ECKERT, Secretary.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Section 2 of the Act of June 25, 1947, P. L. 1145, its amendments and supplements, that the School District of the Borough of East Stroudsburg, Monroe County, Pennsylvania, intends to adopt a resolution levying a $5.00 per capita tax for school purposes at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the School District to be held on May 13, 1954 at 7 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, at the High School Building, West Main Street, Stroudsburg, Pa.

The reason which in the judgment of the Board of Directors of the School District necessitates the tax is that the present revenues of the School District are not sufficient to pay salary increases of the teaching staff and to pay the cost of required capital outlay for equipment, repairs to buildings and furniture.

The amount of revenue estimated to be derived from this tax is the sum of $18,600.00.

Fred Smith, Mask & Zany Play Star

Two local students will be members of the cast for a radio play to be produced Tuesday, April 20 at 1:30 p. m. over Station WVPO. Production of the play is being handled by the Mask and Zany Club, dramatic society, on State Teachers College campus.

Cast in the leading role of "The Incredible Adventures of J. Ernest Twombly" will be Fred E. Smith, son of Mrs. Elta Smith, 121 Lee Ave., Stroudsburg.

Smith plays the part of "Twombly", a henpecked husband who plunges into a blackmail plot and gets involved in a series of misadventures. Smith is a freshman student at the college.

James O. Seese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Seese, Bushkill, will be heard in the role of a floorwalker.

The play is the fifth in a series of programs prepared by students and faculty at the college this Spring. Ralph Smith, college speech instructor, will direct the play.

There are 15,000 different species in the orchid family.

Your best blanket buy for real comfort at a down-to-earth price!

Chatham's "Purrey" is the most popular blanket in the country today because its patented weave of 88% rayon and 12% wool makes it warmer than blankets almost twice its price. You'll purr like a kitten under this wonderful new blanket because it's so very warm, yet so comfortably light. It's a handsome blanket, too . . . bound in 7" acetate satin, with deep, soft nap. We have Chatham's "Purrey" in just about every color you could want, in chest-type storage boxes and surprisingly low-priced. Extra long size, 72" x 90".
